

The Importance of Cultural Development At Corsham Primary School

We are fortunate to have had links with schools in Spain and the Gambia. A teacher visited The Gambia and she has shared her experiences with us all

An ethos of tolerance of the many cultural differences is fostered and positively reinforced through circle time and displays

We encourage the involvement of our children in groups beyond school life like taking part in tag rugby, dancing, swimming etc by celebrating their achievements in assembly and in our school newsletter

The children annually organise a fund raising afternoon for the Goodwill Children's Village in Southern India sponsoring a student

Our display boards throughout the school are always interesting and often reinforce our school's cultural values and broaden the children's awareness of other cultures

Outside artists working with children to create artwork which reflects current cultural celebrations

Displays in the classrooms reflect multi cultural Britain

We ensure that we have a range of literature, music and artefacts to extend the children's knowledge and understanding of different cultures

Assemblies are a great opportunity to share music and learn about a range of different cultures

We aim to develop the children's cultural experiences through visits and visitors. We organise museum trips, farm visits, woodland school sessions and dress in role days

Noah's annual music visit involves all of us in the sounds and sights of Africa

We meet people from a range of cultures and religions as part of our broad and balanced curriculum
